Helping parents advocate for their child

Parent Guidebook

Helping parents advocate for their child ¹

Purpose

The purpose of this handbook is to help parents advocate for, document and track the needs of their children who have special needs. This handbook was created as a guidebook to help parents ask questions, get information and record information about their child's needs.

It is our intention that this guidebook will evolve and change as more input is gathered from the parents and families we serve. If you have suggests or comments please forward them to: childrensupportolutions@morneaushepell.com

Ways I can be involved in my child's education at school:

Documents and information I might need to organize:

Ways I can support my child's learning at home:

Groups and people that could be part of my child's community network:

Sample questions I might discuss with my child's teachers about the learning team:

- How can we stay in touch so that I can support the work you are doing in the classroom?
What's the best way to reach you?
- Are there guidance counsellors or learning consultants who could provide additional information and consultation on program planning for my child if we need it?
- What are some ways I can help my child at home?
How can I reinforce strategies my child is learning and using in class?
- What source do you use for resources that are used with my child?
- Where can I find resources that I can use with my child at home?

Sample questions I might discuss with my child about the learning team:

- Who helps you at school? What kinds of things do they do and say that help you learn?
- When I visit your classroom, what kinds of things do you want me to notice?
- What kinds of things can we do at home to support your learning?
- How long is someone helping you in the classroom? Do you have enough support?
- What is the classroom environment like when there are additional resources in the classroom?
- Are you pulled out of class into a resource room? What is the environment like in the resource room?
- Do you want to be pulled out for a certain amount of minutes in a day for assistance in a resource room?

My child's diverse learning needs

Information I want to share about my child during IEP development:

Accommodations that work well with my child at home:

Assistive technology I'd like to find out more about:

Sample questions I might discuss with my child's teachers:

- How will you be assessing my child's progress and understanding of concepts in your class?
- What is your understanding of my child's learning strengths and needs?
How will this affect his or her learning and participation in your class?
- What kinds of accommodations will be available in your classroom?
- What modifications will you be making to the curriculum to support my child's learning?
- How often will you monitor my child's goals as they are set out in the IEP?
- Will you collaborate with my child's other teachers to ensure they understand the IEP and how it should be applied to every class/subject?
- Who will monitor whether the tenets of the IEP are being upheld?

Sample questions I might discuss with my child before IPP conferences:

- What do you feel are your successes at school? What is really working for you?
- Are there any problems that we need to find some solutions to? What can be done to make things better?
- What are your goals for this school year?

Notes

- Is there a special interest or strength my child has that surprised you?
If so, how were you able to use this in the classroom?
- Based on what you have learned about my child this year, what suggestions do you have for next year's teachers?

Sample questions I might discuss with my child:

- What kinds of things would you like to be different next school year?
- What would you like your new teachers to know about you?
- What are your goals and dreams for the future?

Notes

Transition checklist

From high school to post-secondary training.

This transition checklist serves as a guide to the types of activities that a student should be engaged in during high school. Work through the checklist with your son or daughter as a starting point for assessing your transition plan and identifying items that still need to be accomplished. Encourage your son or daughter to complete as many of these items as he or she can independently.
